ABOUT THE FOREST SERVICE

As our Nation grows, people expect and need more from their forests—more wood; more water, fish and wildlife; more recreation and natural beauty; more special forest products and forage. The Forest Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture helps to fulfill these expectations and needs through three major activities.

- Conducting forest and range research at over 75 locations ranging from Puerto Rico to Alaska to Hawaii.
- Participating with all State forestry agencies in cooperative programs to protect, improve, and wisely use our Country's 395 million acres of State, local, and private forest lands.
- Managing and protecting the 187-million acre National Forest System.

The Forest Service does this by encouraging use of the new knowledge that research scientists develop; by setting an example in managing, under sustained yield, the National Forests and Grasslands for multiple use purposes; and by cooperating with all States and with private citizens in their efforts to achieve better management, protection, and use of forest resources.

For more than 60 years, the Forest Service has been serving the Nation as a leading natural resource conservation agency.

This handbook is designed for use by members of the Forest Service, U.S. Department of Agriculture.

It shows the organization of the Forest Service, with the addresses and telephone numbers of the main field office and units. It lists the personnel chiefly responsible for the various units, key functions, lines of work, and research projects. THIS IS NOT A DIRECTORY OF ALL PERSONNEL. Listings, with some exceptions, are as of September 1, 1972.

The first person named for each unit, function, project, or installation is the one in charge. Titles are omitted unless needed to show the relation of individuals to the organization, or to indicate specific duties.

The express address of a Ranger District is the same as the headquarters address unless otherwise shown.
